

(a) distance determined by available connectors

(b) measured; slider clearance has large variations

(c) typical "roof" thickness, where such a roof is present